Sponsoring Historic Bristol Day - Third Saturday of Each October
BCHF is a 501 (c) (3) non-profit, all volunteer organization.

MAY 2018

June Is An Important Month For Our Membership

In the month of June, those who have become members by paying their yearly dues will have their names listed in THE GAZETTE. Have you paid your membership? It is $12.00 for an individual and $24.00 for family membership. If you have not paid yet, please mail your check to BCHF, P.O. Box 215, Bristol, PA 19007. We thank all of those who have previously paid their dues for this year and for those who have been paying their dues since 1967 when our organization was founded. THANK YOU!

President's Corner

BCHF will host a very special program at the beginning of May. Snyder-Girotti students will recreate their "Wax Museum" of well-known Bristolians from past and present. (As of this writing the program has not yet taken place.) I was fortunate to see these well-versed students when they presented the portrayal this past Bristol Day at the Grundy Library. I was impressed by their poise and ability. I also was delighted to give some of these same students a tour of the Center for the Arts in Bristol. Their teacher, Mrs. Helkowski on one Monday, brought a group of first and second graders and the following week, a group of third grade students. I can't tell you how impressed I was by the knowledge of art these young students displayed. They talked about brush strokes, lighting, color palettes as well as different schools of art. Their teacher is to be commended for doing such an outstanding job giving these students the opportunity to expand their horizons.

I also recently read the book "Drama High" by Michael Sokolove, a former student of Lou Volpe. Mr. Volpe directed the highly nationally acclaimed Drama program at Truman High. Here again is an example of a dedicated teacher giving students an opportunity to excel and grow.

I know there are many teachers who are members of BCHF. Most have not been nationally acclaimed or awarded for their efforts. However, as a former teacher myself, I can say without impunity that there are a million untold stories of teachers giving students wonderful opportunities to help them find skills they might never have discovered. I also must say that we are fortunate to have a younger generation willing to treasure these opportunities. They are our future.

A Note From Ways & Means

Thank you to all who helped make our Annual Spring Tea successful. Special thanks to our amazing Ways & Means Volunteers: Carol & Harold Mitchener, Lana Delaney, Debbie Pinney, Nonnie & Kitsie Austin, Nancy Maren, Sonia Federaro, Ceil Graff, Sue Watson, Helen Younglove and Jan Ruano with whom we could not stage this event! Not only does the committee welcome you the day of the event, but they also help with the set-up on Saturday morning. Delicious tea fare was provided by: home baker, Leeann Reider and local caterer, Darlene Carey. Wasn't Robert Konyves fun entertainment? We want to thank Bristol Riverside Theater for donating 2 tickets for a raffle basket and Robin Butrey for assembling them.

Our May 18-20th trip to Washington, D.C., highlighting the NEWSEUM visit, can still accommodate a few more, but is a go. Call Jan Ruano (215 788-2106) to reserve and see the Calendar of Events for 2018 for the itinerary on the back page of the Gazette.

Our December 6th trip for "Christmas in Cape May" is steadily filling already! (See Calendar of Events for details.) Call: Helen Younglove (215 788-9408) to reserve.

I thank both these W&M members for handling the reservations for these two trips.

Please come Sunday, May 6th at 2pm to be delighted by our Snyder-Girotti's Gifted/Enrichment Students' portrayals of famous Bristolians. Your donations for this program will go directly to the school for the enrichment programs in the future. Light refreshments will be served.

All are welcome to join us at the next Ways & Means Meeting on Monday, May 21st at 7pm at the BCHF Headquarters on Cedar St. Call: Kathy Barniskis - 215 943-0258 for more information.

Travel Update

We're delighted to announce that the May 18 - 20 bus trip to Washington, DC, is a "GO." To check on current availability, contact Jan Ruano at 215 788-2106. See "Calendar of Events" on the back page of this Gazette for trip details and price.

As of this writing, eight seats remain on the December 6 "Christmas in Cape May" bus trip. Consult this issue's "Calendar of Events" for more information or call Helen Younglove at 215 788-9408 for a flyer/reservation form.

April 8 Program

On Sunday afternoon, April 8, James and Deborah Fine presented a program entitled "Bristol and World War I: The quiet life of the community . . . greatly changed," which was very well received by the audience.

Ways & Means Chairperson, Kathy Barniskis, welcomed everyone and announced some of BCHF's upcoming activities.

Among the topics touched upon in James (seated) and Deborah (standing) Fine's power-point presentation were the Merchant Shipyard, which was located on North Radcliffe St. from 1917 until 1921, and the Town of Harriman.

Mr. Fine (left) talks to one of the attendees about The Merchant Shipyard.

Attendees enjoyed the refreshments provided by members of BCHF's W&M Committee.

1921 - A Pontoon Bridge between Burlington and Bristol? Burlington-Bristol Bridge completed May 1931

"The ships (pontoons) are to be 160 feet at center, anchored to screw piles with cables. This will leave 110 feet clearance for river boats to pass between the pontoons. The steel superstructure will leave a clearway of not less than 35 feet, enough for most of the river craft to pass under with ease. For tallships there will be a drawbridge in the center, with 110 feet clearance. It is estimated that a ship can pass through the drawbridge in five minutes, and that the delays to traffic crossing the bridge will be very slight. At the draw span there will be a tender boat on each side of the opening to guide boats through.

It is planned to build at first three roadways - each ten feet wide - with two platforms for pedestrians. If traffic warrants, additional roadways can be made provided the weight of the structure itself will settle these boats down into the water. Any additional traffic put on the bridge will not in any way affect its buoyancy, and will not be felt by those using the bridge".

As it turned out this pontoon bridge was not built. As mentioned above, the Burlington - Bristol Bridge opened in May of 1931 and is still in operation.

A Wigwam on Mill Street

It's election year - - - 1880!

August 12th - The Republicans have decided to build a wigwam at the corner of Mill and Wood Streets. The dimensions will be 40' x 80' to accommodate about 1000 people. The ground is being prepared; lumber will be delivered the next day; the carpenters are ready to work.

August 19th - The wigwam is completed. It's very roomy, capable of seating 900 people with standing room for 100 more. The seats are arranged so that everyone has a view of the platform and speaker, since the back of the room is elevated. The building is lighted with gas and is handsomely decorated.

August 26th - The wigwam is open to the public. A portion of the wigwam is reserved for ladies who show they are interested enough in politics to attend the programs. Usually a parade, which ends in front of the wigwam is held before the meetings begin. The parade features the Garfield and Arthur Club and the Washington Cornet Band. Speakers were men who were prominent in state and local Republican politics. Sometimes overflow crowds were mentioned in the local paper with people standing on the sidewalk outside the building.

The Republican National Convention had met in Chicago on June 2nd and nominated James A. Garfield on the 35th ballot. Chester A. Arthur was selected as Vice President. The incumbent President (Rutherford B. Hayes) did not seek reelection, keeping a promise made during his 1876 campaign. The Democrats chose Gen Winfield Scott Hancock of PA. A third party (the Greenback) chose another Civil War General, James B. Weaver, as their standard bearer. The campaign issues were Civil War loyalties, tariffs and Chinese immigration. The election of 1880 was the sixth consecutive Presidential election won by Republicans.

James A. Garfield (of Ohio) had worked on canal boats as a youth. He was graduated in 1856 from Williams College (Williamson, MA), had been a member of the Ohio State Senate (1859) and served as a major general in the Union Army. He opposed Confederate secession.

Garfield won the election on November 2, 1880 by a close popular majority. Fewer than 2000 votes separated Garfield and Hancock. Voters turned out in record numbers; 78% of all eligible voters cast a ballot. However, the Electoral College vote was 214 to 155. Garfield took office as the 20th President in March, 1881. The Republican schism, for the most part, had been patched up by appointees.

On July 2, 1881, Charles Guiteau, a mentally unstable man who was disappointed at being unable to get a patronage appointment, shot Garfield. Charles Guiteau was a writer and lawyer; he had been rejected in various job applications. He shot Garfield at the Baltimore & Potomac Railroad station in Washington, D.C. Pres. Garfield lingered for over 2 months, but he died of infections related to the gun shot.

Charles Guiteau was tried and sentenced in January, 1882. He was hanged 5 months later and his body was buried in the corner of the jail yard. Tiny pieces of the hanging rope were sold as souvenirs. The authorities decided to disinter Guiteau's body which was then sent to the National Museum of Health & Medicine. His brain was preserved and placed in storage by the Museum; parts of Guiteau's brain can be seen today at the Mutter Museum in Philadelphia.

UPDATE on #246-248 Mill Street: In the years after the wigwam, several businesses have been built. The Winter family sold automobiles, kitchen appliances and washing machines from this location. Cameo Kitchens also used the building for a business showroom. Today the building is occupied by Maestro's Classic.

A Full Bus to Philadelphia

Our bus trip to Philadelphia on April 19 was a sellout and, despite the drizzly and overcast weather, the feedback was very favorable, particularly regarding the Museum of the American Revolution which celebrated its one year anniversary on the day of our visit.

Fascinating Facts About The U.S. Presidents

1. Andrew Johnson - 1865-1869

Was the only President elected to the U.S. Senate after his Presidential term.

Was a self-educated tailor. He is the only President who made his own clothes as well as those of his cabinet members. He was 17 years old before his future wife taught him to read. He is the only President not to have had any type of schooling.

Was the first President to be impeached; he was acquitted in the Senate by just one vote.

2. Ulysses S. Grant - 1869-1877

Was arrested for driving his horse too fast in Washington while President; he was fined $20.

Ate cucumbers soaked in vinegar for breakfast each day.

Was the first President to have both parents alive when he took office.

Finished his memoirs and had them published with the help of Mark Twain (even though he had throat cancer).

3. Rutherford P. Hayes - 1877-1881

Was the first President to use a telephone while in office. The first telephone was installed in the White House in 1879.

Was the only President wounded in the Civil War; five Presidents had served during the War.

Had a source of anger - - - - "his honesty" - - - - (according to his political allies).

4. James A. Garfield - March 4, 1881-September 17, 1881

Was the second President shot in office. He was shot in the back at a Washington Railroad Station. He was placed on a bed with metal springs so that the bullet could not be found. The metal detector, invented by Alexander Graham Bell, could not find the bullet; no one thought to move him.

Could write Greek with one hand and Latin with the other - at the same time.

Was the last of the seven Presidents to be born in a log cabin.

Champion Pianist Breaks Record in Bristol

It was noted in the local paper that William Welker, a pianist at the Family Theatre on Mill Street, sat down and began to play on August 25, 1911. He started the melody at 10:30 AM on a Tuesday morning and never finished until 10:30 PM on Wednesday night. Welker claims the previous record for continuous playing was 34 hours. All day long on Tuesday and Wednesday, crowds of people passed in and out of the theatre to watch the novel endurance of the exhibition. The player ate his meals regularly with one hand while playing with the other. Watchers sat with him all Tuesday night. The next day William told a reporter from the Gazette he "did not feel any worse for the wear." (Other personal needs were not addressed in the news article.) He played entirely without sheet music. Friends say that he has been an adept piano player since he was a child.

The Family Theatre was located at 107 Mill Street. In 1911 it was owned by Max Cohen and operated as a moving picture and vaudeville amusement place. It was advertised as having "three reels of moving pictures shown daily and admission at all times was five cents." Earlier uses for the building location as listed in the town directory in the 1880's was a tobacco store and later as an office for an attorney. Woolworth 5 & 10 moved into the location in 1917 and Spencer Furniture was listed occupying that space in the late 1940's. Today that location is occupied as a medical office.
