JANUARY 2017

Celebrating 50 Years - 1967 - 2017

January Program . . . Meet Eleanor Roosevelt

Our first program of the year will be on January 29th at 2 pm. It is a 1st person presentation by Linda Kenyon entitled "A Life of My Own: Meeting Eleanor Roosevelt". Light refreshments will be available.

We are asking for a donation of $4 per person. The location of the program is in our historic one-room Quaker School House that was constructed in 1874. The location of our building is at 315 Cedar Street in Bristol. We hope that you will be present at this very interesting program.

Board Members Elected

At the General Meeting in November of the Board of Directors of the Bristol Cultural & Historical Foundation, the following persons were elected.

Russell Angermann, Kathy Barniskis, Geraldine Cole, Mary Kehoe, Anna Larrisey, Nancy Maren, Catherine McCarry, Mary McIlvain, Harold Mitchener, Deborah Pinney, Nick Rizzo, Jan Ruano, Anthony Russo, Jesse Walker, Helen Younglove.

We would like to thank Barbara Freer for the work that she did in our organization and serving as a member of our Board of Directors. Barbara selected not to stand for the election.

Nick Rizzo had been on our Board of Directors previously and decided to put his name in for the position that Barbara Freer had vacated.

Jesse Walker decided to run for the one year position that was available when Past President, Gerry McCarry died during the year.

We welcome all new members to our Board of Directors.

Our President is Jan Ruano, Vice President is Deborah Pinney, Treasurer is Anna Larrisey, and Corresponding Secretary is Mary McIlvain.

The Secretary of the Board is Ceil Graff which is not an elected position.

President's Corner

Happy New Year to You All. This is a special year for BCHF as we are celebrating our 50th anniversary. BCHF was founded in 1967 by a dedicated group of people who wanted to promote the historical significance of Bristol and provide cultural activities for its residents. The group first met at the Radcliffe Art Gallery. It moved to the Grundy Library and again back to the Art Gallery. In 1991 the one-room Quaker Schoolhouse on Cedar Street was purchased and has been our headquarters ever since.

As this is the President's Corner, I thought it fitting to recognize all the past presidents of BCHF. Each one dedicated his or her time and talents to see to fruition the goals of our organization.

We begin with Joe Pavone, whose Art Gallery was our first home. Then on to Paul Ferguson and Harold Mitchener whose love and knowledge of history was and continues to be an important asset. You can read articles written by both men on our web site. Harold continues to be our cherished historian and editor of the Gazette.

The next presidents, not necessarily in this order, were Tom Izzie, Mark Swift, Mary McIlvain, Chris Molden, Nancy Maren, Tillie VanAken, Angello Grisolia and Gerry McCarry. Mary and Nancy continue as members of the Board of Directors. Mary is currently our corresponding secretary and Nancy, among other things, prepares the Gazette for publication. Paul, Tillie and Gerry have passed away but their memory will live on.

Thanks to them for all the work they did and are doing to promote BCHF. I am proud to be counted along with this great group of people.

Meet “First Lady Eleanor” on the 29th

On Sunday, January 29, at 2 p.m., Linda Kenyon will return to BCHF’s stage to present “A Life of My Own: Meeting Eleanor Roosevelt.” Ms. Kenyon will be remembered for her entertaining portrayal of renowned chef Julia Child on March 22, 2015.

According to Ellie Seagraves, Eleanor Roosevelt’s granddaughter, “Linda has the ER voice, gestures, warmth and engaging personal touches of ER. What Linda does with this role is the best I’ve seen or heard any place.”

Light refreshment will be served following the program. A donation of $4 per adult attendee is requested; students are admitted free. Advance reservations are not required. The program is open to the public; feel free to invite your relatives, friends and coworkers.

Please note that a snow date of Sunday, February 12 has been established. To check on a rescheduling, call 215 788-9408. However, we’re hoping to see you on the 29th!

Three Trips To Take

As announced earlier, our Ways & Means Committee is offering three bus trips this year; the destinations are Baltimore, the Hudson River Valley of NY, and Philadelphia. There’s been a change in the itinerary of the latter trip, as stated below.

BALTIMORE, THURSDAY, MAY 11 (3 days before Mother’s Day!! Hint! Hint!) - Ellanna Delaney is currently taking reservations for this day trip which will include your choice of Phillips Seafood Restaurant’s “All-You-Can-Eat Crab Feast” or their “Plated Menu” with your selection of one of three entrees, followed by a 3-hour guided bus tour of Baltimore’s renowned sites. For a detailed flyer and to make reservations, contact Ellanna at 215 788-4138. Reservations close on March 31, unless space is sold out before then.

HUDSON RIVER VALLEY OF NY, WED.-FRI., OCTOBER 4-6 - This fully-escorted bus trip, organized by Ellen’s Travel of Dresher, PA, will include guided tours of West Point Military Academy, “Val-Kill” (First Lady Eleanor Roosevelt’s cottage), “Springwood” (birthplace, lifelong home and burial place of 32nd President Franklin D. Roosevelt), and “Wilderstein” (the Queen Anne mansion which was home to The Suckley Family, whose last family member, “Daisy,” was a close friend of FDR). Also on the itinerary is a 2-hour narrated sightseeing cruise on the Hudson River. Price of $498 per person, based on double occupancy, includes the transportation, overnight accommodations, two breakfasts and two dinners including a dinner at the historic Beekman Arms, meal gratuities and hotel taxes, and all admissions. Helen Younglove (215 788-9408) will begin accepting reservations on March 1. A deposit of $200 per person is required, with balance due by August 15. Trip cancellation insurance is available upon request.

PHILADELPHIA, WED., NOVEMBER 29 - In late November, we received word about an exciting exhibit coming to the Franklin Institute later this year; viz., “The Terracotta Warriors, Guards for Eternity.” Since Philadelphia will be the only city on the East Coast to host this exhibit, the Ways & Means Committee decided to scrap plans for the Philly Pops Holiday Concert in early December and pursue a visit to the Franklin Institute in late November. Watch future issues of the GAZETTE for more information about this bus trip or check BCHF’s website (www.bristolhistory.org).

Out Of The Past

The following items were excerpted from JANUARY 1877 issues of the BUCKS COUNTY GAZETTE. Office at No. 48 Radcliffe St., cor. Walnut St., Bristol. Single copy 5 cents; one year $2.00.

SORTS;

There has been ice skating on the river but the snow spoiled it all, greatly to the disgust of Young America generally.

The colored people of Bristol have a literary society and they have debates occasionally. On Monday evening, a quorum of the association met at the A.M.E. Church to listen to arguments on the importance of whether wine or women exerted the greater influence.

The Centennial year was welcomed with the ringing of bells and the roar of artillery, but 1877 received no such ovation. At the Methodist Church, the old year was “watched” out and the new in with nothing to mar the solemnity of the occasion.

Among the most interesting festivals of the holiday season was the entertainment of the Buckley Street Sabbath School, established by Thomas Hughes & Co.

HOUSE TO LET. 5 rooms at $8 per month. Apply at Dr. Pursell’s Drug Store.

“Persons who are in search of suitable goods that come into every day use for holiday presents should not fail to call upon J. WESLEY WRIGHT, next to the Canal bridge, Mill Street, where they will find the largest assortment in Bucks County at low prices, including a large line of standard calicoes at 6-1/4 cts. per yard.”

“James Postens, having leased the DELAWARE HOUSE and set it up with a view to the comfort of its patrons, has determined to make it a first-class house in every respect and will receive guests on moderate terms, both by the day or week.”

The RED LION HOTEL, Bristol Turnpike, will be open for the accommodation of sleighing parties at all times during the winter. Good music in attendance. James W. Titus, proprietor.”

1/11 - - THE GRUNDY MILLS. The greatest improvement made in the borough during the past year, and the one from which the citizens of Bristol will derive the greatest advantage, is the establishment of the Grundy Mills, which are situated on the line of Jefferson Avenue between the railroad and the canal. The mill was decided to be built on September 11, 1876, and ground was laid out on September 13 and work immediately commenced. The first machinery was moved in on December 13. The total cost of the building, including real estate, engine and boilers, when completed will be about $38,000. The mill will furnish employment for upward of 100 men and boys and from 60 to 75 women and girls, and will probably be in operation by Monday, the 22nd inst.

SORTS:

Over $5,000 has been expended upon the Livingston & Grundy Mills for fire protection.

A special meeting of Fire Co. No. 1 is called for this evening to devise ways and means for placing the fire bell high enough for it to be distinctly heard in all parts of the town.

Mr. Charles E. Scheide, after consulting with the operators of the Livingston, Thos. J. Hughes & Co., and Grundy mills, and other manufacturing establishments of Bristol, and securing the hearty cooperation in the matter, laid before the School Board a proposition for establishing a night school for the benefit of the employees of the different mills, who have no opportunity of attending the day schools. The School Board held a special meeting on Monday evening to take the matter into consideration and determined to open a night school at the Wood Street school house, commencing on Monday, the 15th inst. and continuing until the end of March.

MARRIED. Shisler-Michener. January 7, 1877 by Rev. J.S. Cook.

Mr. William S. Shisler of Bucks County and Miss Sallie R. Michener of Bristol.

“The Cheapest Store in the County. Groceries: Fat Macherel - 3 for 10¢. Good Rio Coffee - 23¢ per lb. Washing Soap - 3 and 4¢. Cigars - $1.50 box. Seedless Raisins - 13¢ lb. Good Japan Tea - 50¢ lb. A full line of groceries at city prices. WOOD’S CHEAP STORE, 58 Mill Street (cor. Mill & Wood).”

“Just Opened! JOHN LONGSTRETH’S NEW STORE, cor. Bath & Buckley. Well selected stock of dry goods and groceries. Cheap for cash.”

1/18 - - SORTS:

Prof. Gilbert, a colored speaker and singer, assisted by the Gilbert Family, will give a “Jubilee Concert” tomorrow evening at Cabeen’s Hall. Proceeds will go toward paying for the organ in the public school.

The night school had a good send-off on Monday night. 98 Pupils were admitted and between 30 and 40 were denied admittance because they were over 21 years of age.

We are shortly to have another manufacturing establishment in the borough, something different from anything in this part of the country, the nearest factory being in Pittsburgh. This new industry is a factory for manufacturing white lead kegs. It will be conducted under the name of A. Pursell & Co. The location will be at the foot of Cedar Street.

“MISS MERRIAM’S FAMILY AND DAY SCHOOL for girls at Bristol will open September 13. Thoroughly competent teachers have been secured for the different departments of instruction.

Joshua Peirce has commenced the erection of three houses on Logan Street.

“Sunnyside,” the parsonage of the Baptist Church, was visited by the members and congregation last Friday evening. Many tokens of a substantial character, such as dry goods, groceries and greenbacks, were left as evidence of the esteem in which the pastor, Rev. W.H. Conard, and his wife are held.

WANTED. A partner with from $3,000 to $5,000 in established business. Address B, with references, this office.

“APPLE JELLY. Just received from New York State. Wholesale and retail. M.A. WALMSLEY, cor. Radcliffe & Mill Streets.”

“First-class music furnished for balls and private parties. J. COT-SHOTT, Bristol.”

“New Meat Shop! “DUKE” DOLAN, proprietor (formerly with Hazel Hibbs), cor. Bath & Otter Streets. Fresh meats of all kinds constantly on hand.”

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES;

Neuralgia & Rheumatism. Two tablespoons each of beef’s gall, laudanum, spirits of turpentine, hemlock oil, sassafrass oil, half a pint of alcohol. Mix all together. Apply 3 or 4 times a day.

Cough Troches. 1 oz. Spanish licorice, 2 oz. refined sugar, 2 drams finely powdered gum arabic, and extract of opium, one scruple. Beat the whole together, with mucilage of gum tragacanth, make into smooth troches, to be dissolved in the mouth when cough is troublesome.

The family constructed a cottage -- Val-kill, which Eleanor and her guests lived in when Franklin and the children were away from Hyde Park. Franklin encouraged Eleanor to develop this as a place where she could use some of her ideas for work as winter jobs for rural workers and women.

Following the onset of Franklin's polio in 1921, Eleanor began serving as a stand-in for her husband. She became increasingly influential as a leader in the NY State Democratic party. By 1928, she was promoting Franklin's domination as the Democratic candidate for governor of New York. Franklin won; the Roosevelts moved into the governor's mansion in Albany. Eleanor traveled widely to make speeches and to inspect state facilities on his behalf.

Upon FDR's inauguration on March 4, 1933, Eleanor became First Lady and she set out to redefine the position. She continued with her speaking agenda she had started before becoming First Lady. She maintained an active travel schedule in her twelve years at the White House. She worked with the civil rights movement, with union workers and with the veteran groups. She worked for social reform and found herself engaged in many wartime causes.

Franklin died on April 12, 1945 after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage at Warm Springs, Georgia. Eleanor later learned that FDR's mistress, Lucy Mercer Rutherford, had been with him when he died. This was especially sad because she learned that her daughter Anna had been aware of the ongoing friendship between the President and Rutherford. After the funeral Eleanor moved out of the White House and returned to Val-Kill.

In Dec., 1945, Pres. Truman appointed Eleanor as a delegate to the United Nations General Assembly. In Apr., 1946, she became the first chairperson for the UN Commission of Human Rights. She resigned her UN position when Dwight Eisenhower became President in 1953. Eleanor supported John F. Kennedy for President and he reappointed her to the U.N. where she served for two years. She was also on the National Advisory Committee of the Peace Corps.

In 1960, she was diagnosed with an anemic condition which activated a dormant case of bone marrow tuberculosis. She died of cardiac failure at her Manhattan home on Nov. 7, 1962 at the age of 78. She was interred next to her husband in the rose garden at the Roosevelt family home.

Her autobiography was finally completed in 1961 (started in 1937). She held over 300 press conferences for women reporters only. Therefore, newspapers had to keep female reporters on the staffs. She wrote a monthly column for the magazine Woman's Home Companion. She wrote a daily column called "My Day" for a newspaper. She addressed the Democratic National Conventions in 1952 and 1956.

Ways & Means

Hope your holidays were great and that you're braced for whatever winter brings our way! Hopefully, there'll be no pesky winter storm and you'll turn out for our Sunday, January 29th program. Linda Kenyon will be portraying Eleanor Roosevelt. Come at 2 pm for this special presentation followed by light refreshments.

The GAZETTE has a listing of up-coming events and trips, so plan your year with us. AND, plan on attending our next Ways & Means meeting on Monday, January 16th at 7 PM at our BCHF headquarters on Cedar St. It's always the 3rd Monday of the month.

An Extraordinary Woman

Anna Eleanor Roosevelt was born in New York City in 1884. From an early age, she preferred to be called by her middle name (Eleanor.) Through her father, Elliott Roosevelt (1860-1894), she was a niece of President Theodore (T.R.) Roosevelt (1858-1919) and through her mother, she was a niece of tennis champions Valentine Hall (1867-1934) and Edward Hall (1872-1932. Eleanor acted in such an old-fashioned manner as a child that her mother nicknamed her "Granny." Eleanor was born into a world of wealth and privilege; her family was part of the New York high society. Both parents died before Eleanor was ten years old, so she lived with her maternal grandmother.

Eleanor was tutored privately and at the age of fifteen was sent to Allenswood Academy, a private finishing school in Wimbledon, outside London, England from 1899 to 1902. The headmistress, Marie Souvestre, a noted feminist educator, sought to cultivate independent thinking in young women. She took a special interest in Eleanor who learned to speak French fluently and began to gain self-confidence. Eleanor wished to continue at Allenswood, but in 1902 was summoned home by her grandmother to make her social debut at age 17, thus ending her formal education. She was presented at a debutante ball at the Waldorf-Astoria. Eleanor was active with the New York Junior League, teaching dancing and calisthenics in the East Side slums

During the summer of 1902 Eleanor met her father's fifth cousin, Franklin Delano Roosevelt (1882-1945) on a train to Tivoli, NY. The two began a secret correspondence and romance and became engaged in Nov., 1903. Franklin's mother, Sara Ann Delano, opposed the union and made him promise that the engagement would not be announced for a year. Sara took her son on a cruise in 1904, hoping Franklin would forget the romance. But Franklin was determined, so the wedding date was set to accommodate Pres. Theodore Roosevelt who agreed to give the bride away. They were married on March 17, 1905; the date was selected because the President was already scheduled to be in N.Y.C. for the St. Patrick's Day Parade.

The couple settled in N.Y.C. in a house provided by Sara and at the family estate overlooking the Hudson River. Sara sought to control the raising of her grandchildren. Eleanor and Franklin had six children:

Anna Eleanor (1906-1975) | James Roosevelt II (1907 - 1991) | Franklin (1909 - 1909) Elliott (1910 - 1990) | Franklin Delano, Jr. (1914 - 1988) | John Aspinwall II (1916 - 1981) Eleanor considered herself ill-suited to motherhood. She wrote, "it did not come naturally to me to understand little children or to enjoy them."

The "cottage", now known as FDR's summer home, was built in 1897 for Ms. Hartman Kuhn of Boston. When she died, Mrs. Kuhn left the cottage and 5 acres of land to Franklin's mother, Sara (at a bargain price). Sara gave it to her son and his growing family. The family spent summers there from 1909 to 1921. They continued using the cottage after the polio episode. However, Franklin only visited occasionally. The interior of the cottage was comfortable but had neither electricity nor telephone. Kerosene lamps and candles were used throughout the house. Every summer the Roosevelts brought along a nurse and a governess to tutor the children and several servants to run the cottage. Also several island residents were hired to help with daily chores. Running water for bathing, cooking and cleaning was gravity-fed throughout the cottage from the storage tank on the third floor. Outside, a windmill and a single cylinder gas engine pumped water from the well to the holding tank. Drinking water was brought by horse and cart in large bottles from a spring. In 1915 Franklin had an addition built on the house. Eleanor had a daily custom of serving tea from her Wedgewood tea set either in the living room or on the porch.

In Sept, 1918, while unpacking a suitcase of Franklin's, Eleanor discovered a bundle of love letters to him from her social secretary, Lucy Mercer. So the marriage from that point on was more of a political partnership. Disillusioned, Eleanor again became active in public life and focused on her social work rather than her role as a wife. In Aug., 1921 the family was vacationing at Campobello Island, New Brunswick, when Franklin was stricken with polio which permanently paralyzed his legs. Eleanor persuaded him to stay in politics despite Sara's urgings that he should retire at age 39. Eleanor's public role grew and she increasingly broke from Sara's control.
